With all his intrinsic worth, Father Phil was, at the same time, a strange man in exterior manners; for with an abundance of real piety, he had an abruptness of de-livery, and a strange way of mixing up an occasional remark to his congregation in the midst of the celebration of the mass, which might well startle a stranger; but this very want of formality made him beloved by the people, and they would do ten times as much for Father Phil as for the severe Father Dominick. luential on the Irish.

On the Sunday in question Father Phil intended delivering an address to his flock from the aliar, urging them to the necesity of bestirring themselves in the repairs of the chapel, which was in a very dilapidated condition, and at one end let in the rain through its worn out thatch. A subscription was necessary: and to raise this scription was necessary: and to raise this "Long life to him!" cried a voice in the rain through its worn out thatch. A subscription was necessary; and to raise this samong a very impoverished people was no easy matter. The weather happened to be unfavorable, which was most lavorable to Father Phil's purpose, for the rain dropped its arguments through the roof upon the kneeling peeple below, in the most convincing manner; and as they endeavored to get out of the wet, they pressor around the altar as much as they could, for which they were reproved very smartly by his Reverence in the very midst of the mass. These interruptions occurred sometimes in the most serious places, producing a ludicrous effect, of which the worthy Father was quite unconscious, in his great anxiety to make the people repair the chapel.

A big woman was elbowing her way to wards the rails of the altar and Father Phil, casting a sidelong glance at her sent her to the right-about, while he interrupted his appeal to heaven to address her thus:

"That's not her fault," said the priest.
"And maybe she'll mend o' that yet."

This excited much merriment, for the widow was buxom, and had recently divided in old husband, and by all accounts was cocking her cap at a handsome young fellow in the parish.

Again he turned to pray, and after some time he made an interval in the service to address his congregation on the subject of the repairs, and produced a paper containing the names of subscribers to that pious work who had already contributed, by way of example to those who had not.

"Here it is," said Father Phil; "here it is, and no denying it—down in black and white; but if they who give are down in black, how much blacker are those who have not given at all! We are surprised to see so many still suffering with neuralgia and Rheumatism, when they can be cured. We know the feeling which exists among very many—"that any medicine which is advertised must be a humbug." This may be true in some cases, but when we know of a remedy which has become so popular as Lawson's Curative, and we have such conclusive evidence of the good it has a accomplished, it is more than folly not to make a trial of it, and satisfy yourselves that all the proprietors claim for it is true. In such diseases as Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Soiatica, Healache, Sore Throat, Lame Back, and Toothache, we can safely say that no remedy, either in physician's prescription or in proprietary form, has effected more cures than Lawson's Curative. Baltimore.

Menne of Smell and Taste Recovered.

I feel compelled to acknowledge to you the great benefit Sanyono's Radical Curr has been to me. For len years have been stilled with this leathsome disease, and especially in the winter time has it been most severe. The discharge has been thick and bloody, emitting a roul odor so but that my presence in a room with others was very offensive to them. One week after commencing the use of Sanyon's Radical Curr I was not troubled with it as all. My senses of tasts and smell, which were whally gone, have now fully returned, and my general health is much improved.

10 YEARS A SUFFERER. From Hon. Theo. P. Bogert. Feeling thoroughly convinced of the efficac Sanyone's Rapical Cure for Catagonia of Sanyorn's Radical Cure for Catarri, I am induced to crop you a line to say that although I have been scopical of all the nostrinus advertised as "radical cures," I have never found anything that promises such relief and ultimate cure as that of Sanyorn's. I have been affilief with this dreadful disease for more than ten years, and not until recently could I be induced to persevere with any until I read the letter of Mr. Henry Wells (of Wells, Fargo & Co), and can truthfully say that after using five or six tottles I am thoroughly convinced of its curative properties. Hoping that others similarly afflicted like myself will be induced to make the trial. I am, gentlemen, very truly, etc.
